

BE THERE
WHEN NO ONE ELSE IS

Do you believe in the power of humanity in conflict?

Do you think it should apply even during wars?

Do you want victims of armed conflict to be protected and fairly treated, no matter who they are or what side they are on?

With the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), you can be there for them when no one else is.

The ICRC is the founding member of the world's largest and most experienced humanitarian network.

We have been helping people affected by armed conflict for more than 160 years.

We are a neutral, impartial and independent organization, with a unique mandate to assist victims of conflict and be guardians of the International Humanitarian Law.

*“What matters is not only the good
the International Committee of the Red Cross brings but the evil it prevents.”*

*– Nelson Mandela,
former President of South Africa*

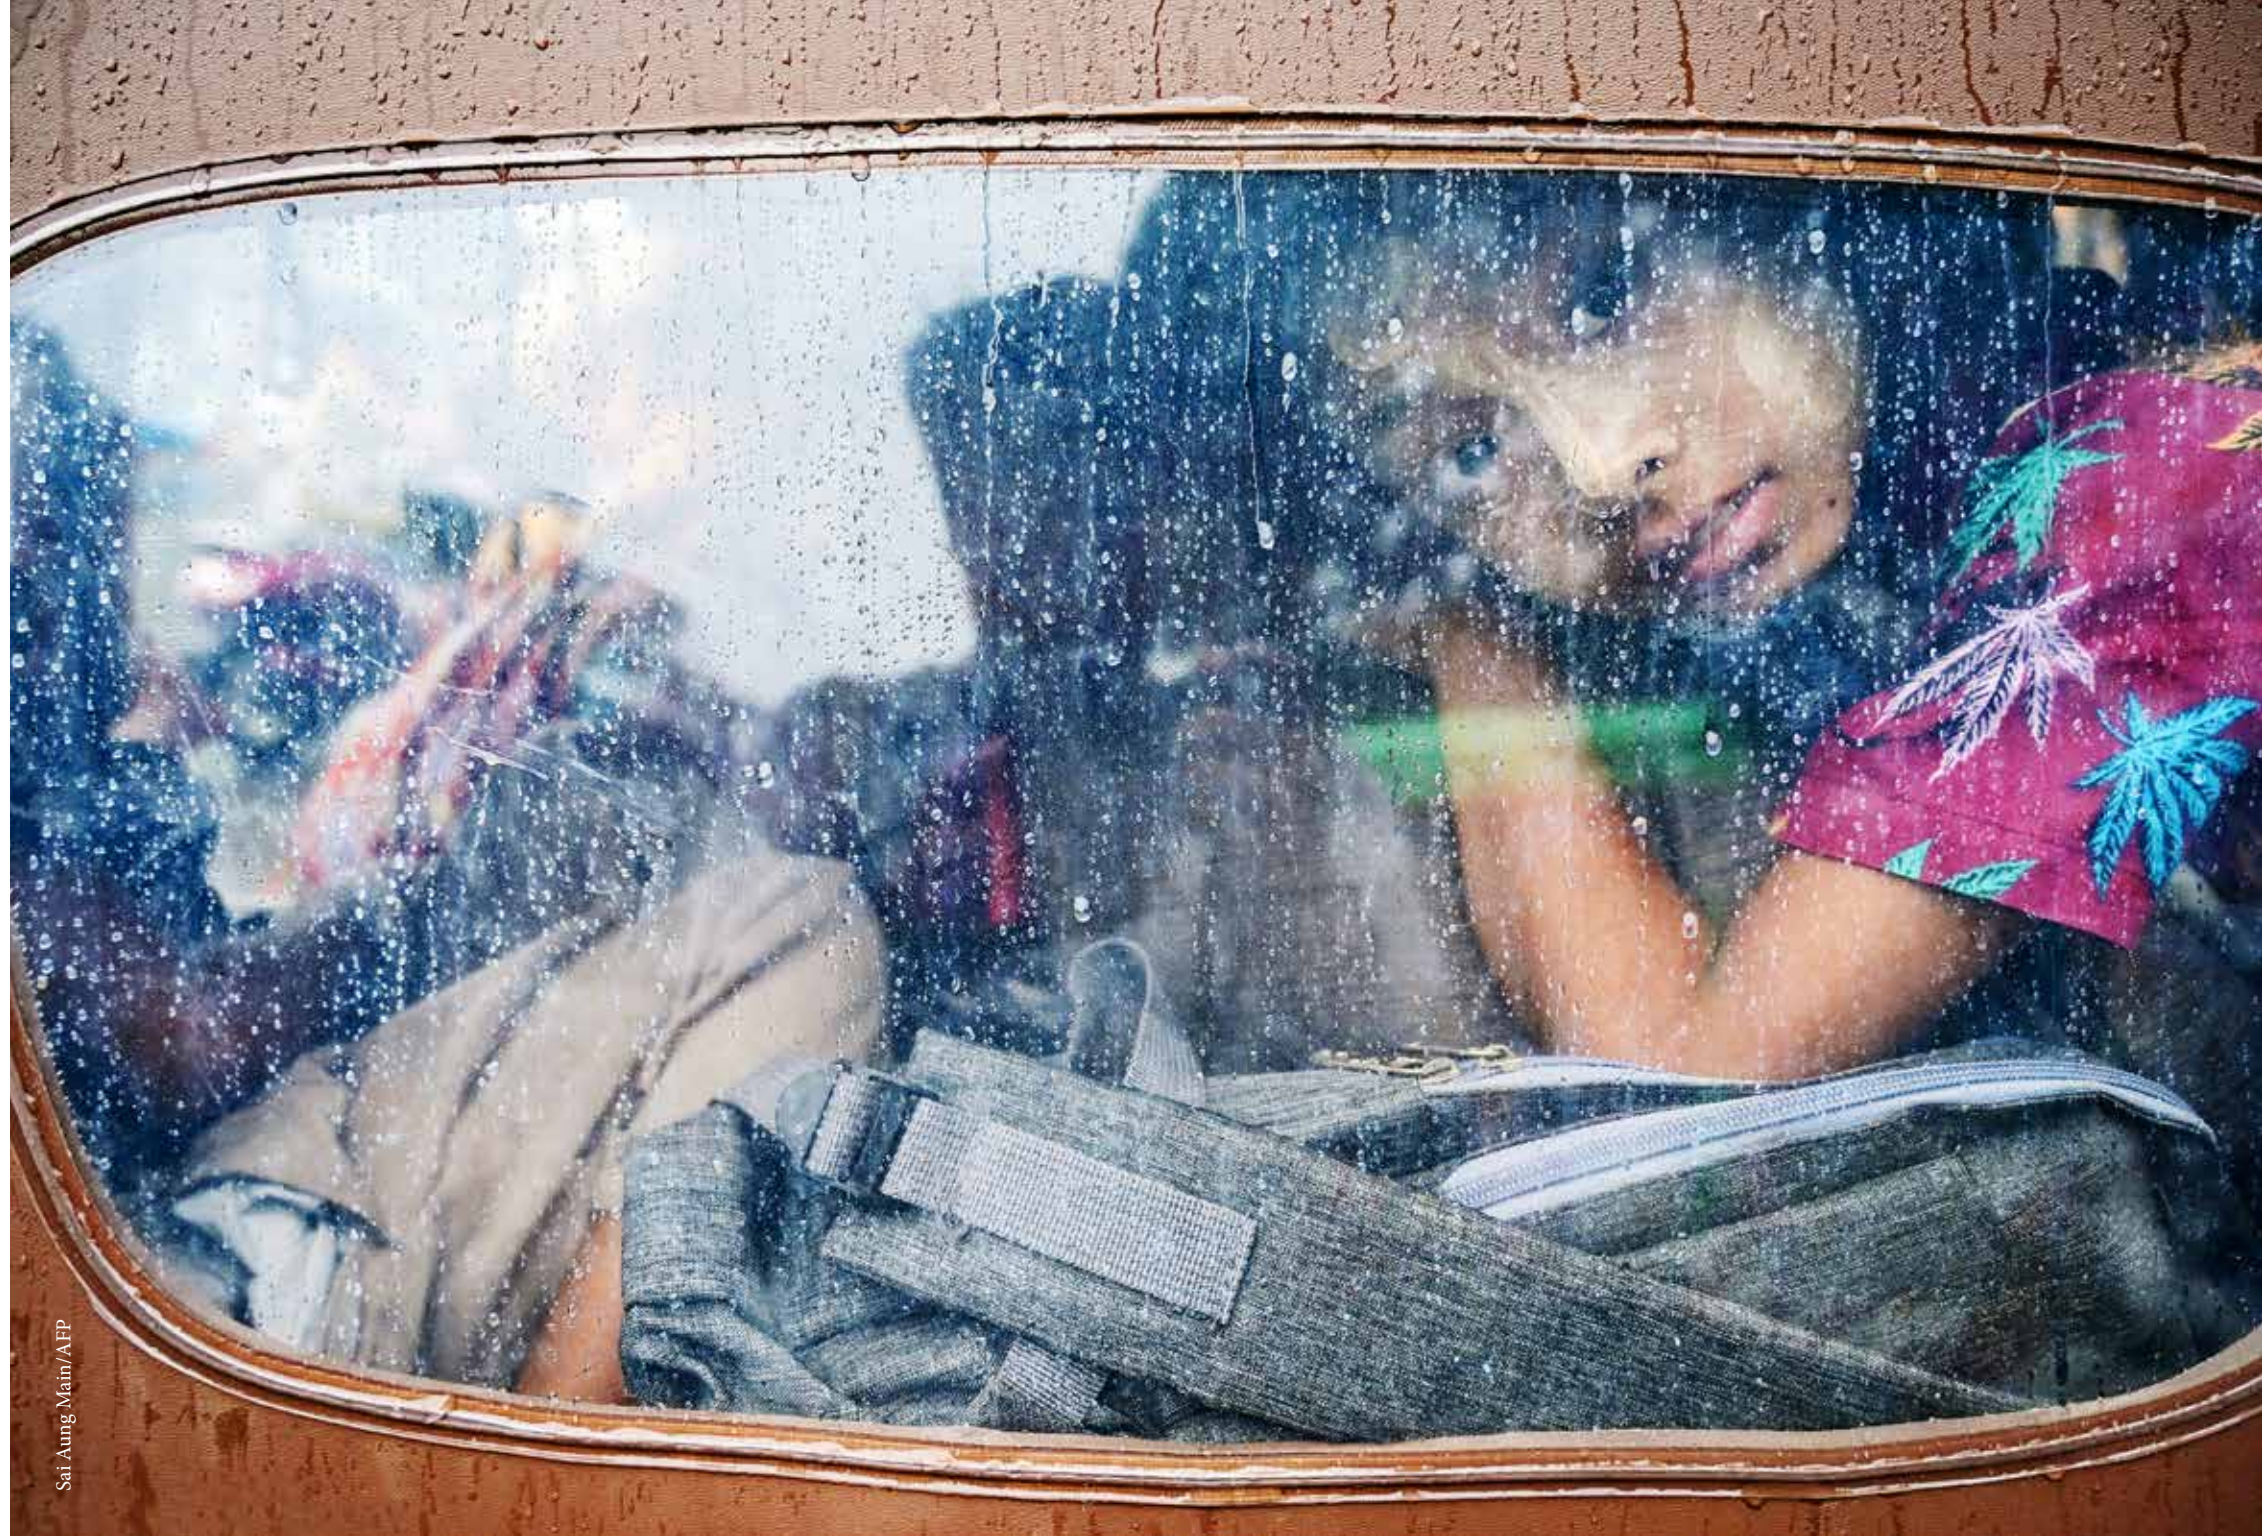

We can reach the most vulnerable in war zones around the world, where no one else can get to.

Will you help us be there for as long as it is needed?

Together, bringing hope when there is none left.

Sai Aung Maw/AFP

Amidst the horror of warfare, together we can protect those who are not part of the fight.

When the explosions cease, together we can help people whose lives have changed forever, to regain their dignity.

Lost in the chaos of war, together we can reunite loved ones separated by conflict and visit those who have been detained to ensure they are not mistreated.

Together we can save lives.

We harness the diversity and experience of 20,000 staff from all around the world.

We are on frontlines, day in day out, listening to communities.

We foster a spirit of innovation to better serve the hardest to reach communities living with the consequences of conflict.

Together we can bring hope.

We engage with all parties in a conflict to influence them to respect the rules of war and protect civilians.

We secure access across frontlines, enabling appropriate and sustainable humanitarian responses for all communities affected by conflict.

Together we can shape the future.

Today's climate and other environmental crises affect all of us, but the hardest hit communities are the poorest, most marginalized – especially those impacted by conflict.

Both our operations and international humanitarian law seek to protect the environment in times of conflict.

“There is a humanitarian
in each of us.”

– Mirjana Spoljaric,
President, International Committee
of the Red Cross

Together, let us write a new story of humanity.

A story of hope.

A Red Cross and Red Crescent story.

Let us create a better world today, tomorrow
and for generations to come. Together.

Scan the QR code
to donate now

ICRC

